

NH .675,

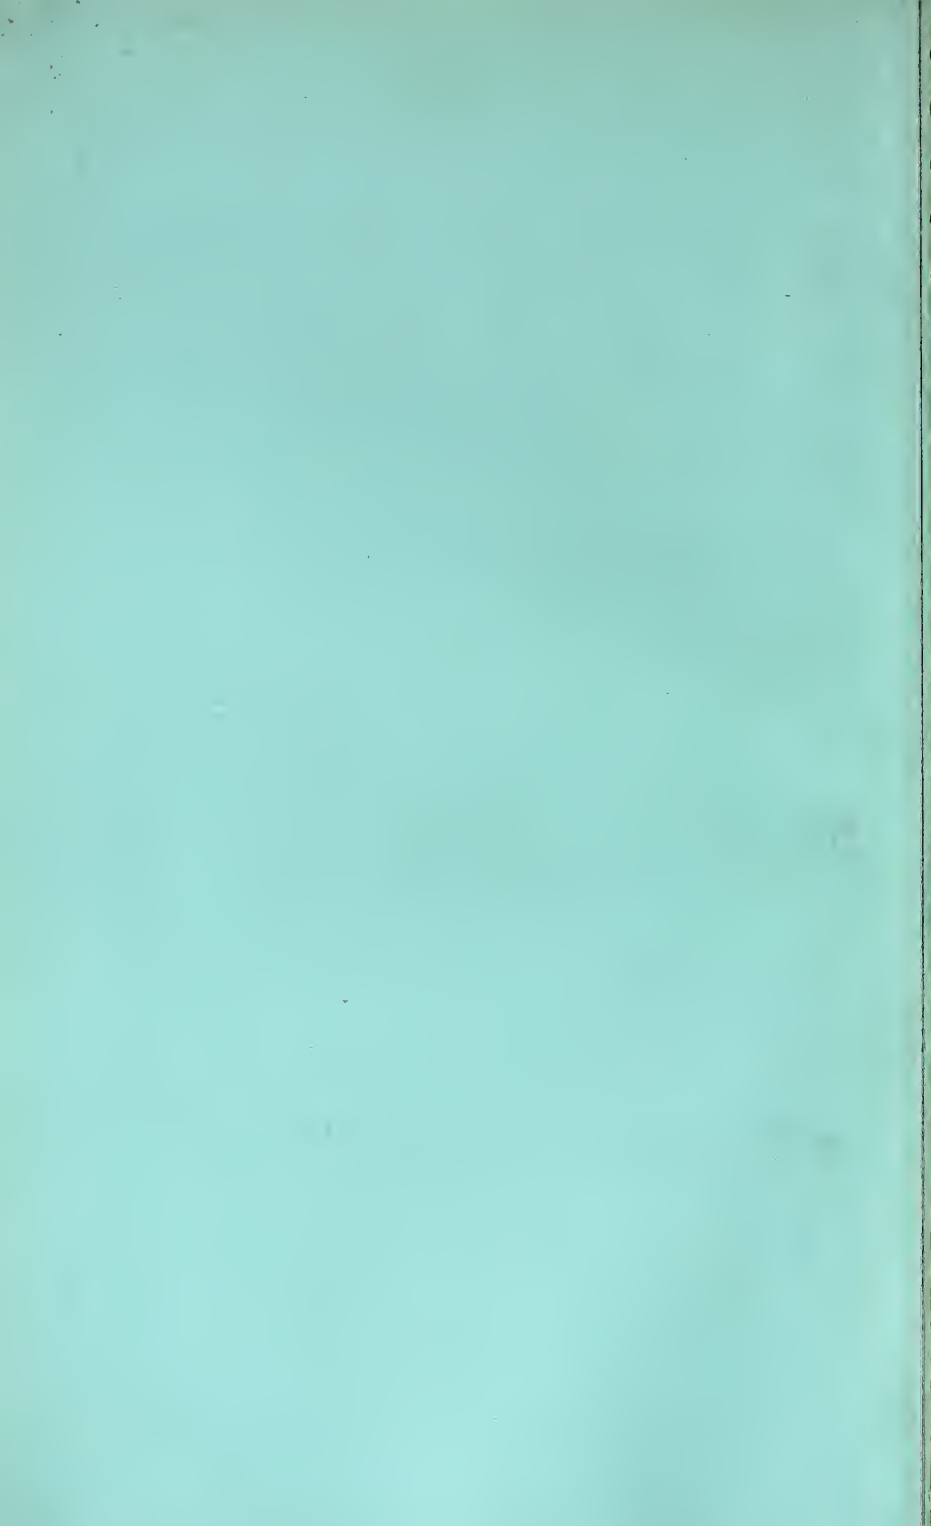

SCOTTISH AMICABLE SOCIETY'S MINIMUM PREMIUMS.

of trouble saved, in many cases this will be found a great pecuniary gain. Many of the principal Life Assurance Offices take premiums by quarterly payments, and unquestionably their rates are less than those of the Government; and while in the case of persons wishing to transact very small Assurances I have shown how desirable it is for them to be able to propose to Government for their lowest amount, £20, I would now urge the important advantage which will be obtained by those who feel themselves able to take out somewhat larger Assurances, to make their proposals to a well-established Office for the lowest sum it will accept, by Quarterly Payments. The foregoing remarks, as you will have seen, have been entirely general in their character. I now propose to contrast specially the Quarterly rates of our Minimum System with those of the Government. And for this purpose I submit two tables, the first, of Premiums payable during the whole period of life, and the second, of Premiums ceasing after age 60. The Table of Premiums payable during life, gives,—First, The Monthly Premium which the Government would charge for £100. These are calculated from the Government Table 5, which shows what would be assured by the Government for a Monthly Premium of Two Shillings. Second, The Quarterly Premium which this Society would charge for £100, payable immediately on death. And Third, The sums which would be assured by the SCOTTISH AMICABLE for three times the Monthly Premium charged by the Government for £100. To state the result of the contrast in this Table, in a moderate and simple way, it may be said that the sums assured by the SCOTTISH AMICABLE are in all cases at least one-third more than by the Government. The Table of Premiums ceasing after 60, gives,—First, The Monthly Premium which the Government would charge for £100. These are calculated from the Government Table 7, which shows what would be assured by the Government for a Monthly Premium of Two Shillings. Second, The Quarterly Premium which this Society would charge for £100, payable immediately on death. It may be here noted that the number of Quarterly Premiums will be regulated by the corresponding number of Annual Payments; and in some cases there may be fewer Quarterly Payments than the corresponding Monthly Premiums under the Government Table; but this cannot affect the contrast to an extent of any consequence. Third, The sums which would be assured by the SCOTTISH AMICABLE for three times the Monthly Premium charged by the Government for £100. The contrast of this Table is even more favourable for the SCOTTISH AMICABLE; the additional sums assured by it being from more than a third to as much as a half. But I must remind you of the grounds and principles on which the Minimum Premiums of this Society, which have been thus contrasted with the Government rates, were framed. The general reason for endeavouring to fix as low a Premium as possible was because it was thought the full benefits of the system of Life Assurance were thus best secured. This is undoubtedly the case as regards the great body of persons possessing life incomes, who so regulate their affairs as to fix upon the annual sum they are able to devote to Life Assurance, and who naturally desire to have at once as much assured by it as they can. Formerly this could only be effected through the non-profit rates of Offices; and, looking to the comparatively small difference which these rates bore to the profit rates, it was thought prudent rather to forego the advantage of having an additional sum assured, than to

QUEEN INSURANCE COMPANY.

At the Annual Meeting of the Proprietors, held at Liverpool on the 27th October, 1864, BERNARD HALL, Esq., Chairman of the Company, in the Chair, the Directors' Report for the year stated:—

That the Fire Premiums for the Year amounted to	£101,085
Being an increase over the preceding year of	30,785
That 352 Life Policies were issued for	205,088
Being an increase over the preceding year of	57,508
That the New Life Premiums were	6,371
Being an increase over the preceding year of	2,421
That the Life income was	23,531

And that upwards of 60 per cent. of the entire Net Premiums was added to the Life Fund.

That the Subscribed Capital was increased to	1,876,720
That the Paid-up Capital was increased to	187,672
That after providing for all outstanding claims, the Fire Reserve would stand at	114,312

Making the Funds in Hand, after providing for the Dividend - - - 343,413

A Dividend was declared of 2s. per Share, being 10 per Cent. on the paid-up Capital.

The Chairman, in his address to the Shareholders, drew their attention to the following unusual advantage afforded among others to Life Assurers by this Company:—

The Outside Expenditure for the General Management of the Company, chargeable to the Life Department, is absolutely restricted by the Deed of Settlement to Ten per Cent. of the Net Life Income. This most important restriction shows that the interests of the participating Policy Holders are closely watched and carefully attended to by the Company. Attention is especially called to this point, as the proportion of premiums expended for management must largely influence Profits and Bonuses.

The Life Bonus declared in 1863 averaged 46 per Cent. of the Premiums paid by the assured, and was in some cases as high as 75 per Cent.

PREFACE.

THE Publishers, in submitting the Thirty-eighth Edition of the GLASGOW DIRECTORY, deem it to be their first duty gratefully to acknowledge the public support and confidence hitherto received by them, to retain which no effort on their part will be spared to render the volume worthy of the growing importance of this great commercial and manufacturing city.

Some time ago the Publishers intimated their intention of having a new Plan of Glasgow; that intention has this year been carried into effect. The new Plan embraces a much larger area than the one which it supersedes. It includes towards the west the Towns of Partick and Govan, the Suburbs of Dowanhill, Hillhead, and all the Terraces on the Great Western Road; towards the north, East-park, Possil House, and Springburn; on the east, the Village of Camlachie; and towards the south the area has also been considerably extended, every Street, Square, Terrace, and Crescent, &c., within its bounds, have been laid down with great accuracy, while the execution of the engraving is chaste and effective.

The extensive buildings which have been erected in the locality of the Queen's Park, now forming various Streets and Terraces, have, from their importance, induced the Publishers to include them in the general Street Directory; each will be found in its proper place in future, in this section of the volume.

The usual number of new Names, together with new Street Lists, and other matter, have increased the size of this year's Directory over that of last year by about twenty closely printed pages of letterpress; and the Publishers trust that the great additional expense incurred on this occasion will be met by a corresponding increase of subscribers, for which provision has been made by printing several hundred additional copies. The public are requested to bear in mind that each Directory is accompanied with a copy of the new Plan, which cannot be sold separately under 1s. 6d. each impression; so that in point of fact the Directory is cheaper now than ever it has been, taking into account the increased cost of production: but it will entirely depend on the sale of the Directory whether the present very moderate charge can be maintained, seeing that the annual expenses are steadily increasing.

ALMANAC AND TIDE TABLE.

FROM JUNE 1865, TILL JUNE, 1866.

The daily rising and falling of the waters of the ocean are, in general, denominated Tides. The rising is called the Flood, or Flux; and when it ceases to rise, High Water. The falling is called the Ebb, or Reflux; and when it ceases to fall, it is said to be Low Water. The interval between the times of High and Low Water is called a Tide.

The Tides are produced by the attraction of the sun and moon, principally that of the latter object. The cohesion of fluids being much less than that of solid bodies, they more easily yield to the power of gravity; in consequence of which the waters immediately below the moon are drawn up in a protuberance, producing a full tide, or what is commonly called High Water, at the spot where it happens. According to this theory, you would imagine that we should have full tide only once in twenty-four hours, that is, every time that we were below the moon; while we find that we have two tides in the course of twenty-four hours, and that it is High Water with us and with our antipodes at the same time.

This opposite tide is rather more difficult to explain than that which is drawn up beneath the moon. In order to render the question more simple, let us suppose the earth to be everywhere covered by the ocean, as in the following figure:

M is the moon, A B C D the earth. Now, the waters on the surface of the earth about A being more attracted than in any other part, will be elevated, the attraction of the moon at B and C being less; but still it will be greater there than at D, which is the part most distant from the moon.

The body of the earth will therefore be drawn away from the waters at D, leaving a protuberance similar to that at A: so that the tide, A, is produced by the waters receding from the earth, and the tide, D, by the earth receding from the waters.

The influence of the sun on the tides is less than that of the moon; for, observe, that the tides rise in consequence of the moon attracting one part of the waters more forcibly than another part. It is this inequality of attraction which produces full and ebb tides. Now the distance of the sun is so great, that the whole globe of the earth is comparatively but as a point; and the difference of its attraction for that part of the waters most under its influence, and that part least subject to it, is but trifling. No part of the waters will be much elevated above, or much depressed below, their general surface by its action. The sun has, however, a considerable effect on the tides; and increases or diminishes them as it acts in conjunction with, or in opposition to, the moon.

According to the calculations of the celebrated La Place, in his Mécanique Celeste the mean force of the sun in raising the tides is to the mean force of the moon as 1 to $1\frac{1}{2}$; and Emerson, in page 423, second edition of his Treatise on Fluxions, calculates the height of the solar tide to be 1.63 feet, and the height by the moon's influence to be 7.28 feet; consequently the height of their joint force to be 8.91 feet. The height here calculated is supposed to be at such places where the sun and moon are vertical, and also in the equinoctial. In places at a distance from the equator, the height will be less as the latitude is greater. Further, their height will also be less according to the sun and moon's declination from the equator.

From what has already been remarked regarding the tides, it is obvious that, when the moon is in Perigee, or at her nearest distance from the earth, she attracts strongest, and therefore raises the tides most. The contrary happens when she is in Apogee, or at her greatest distance from the earth, because of her weaker attraction. At new moon, when she is in conjunction with the sun, and at full moon, when they are in opposition, the tides are raised by the joint attraction of both luminaries, and therefore will produce the highest, or what are called Spring Tides. And Neap Tides are produced by the difference of their force when in quadrature. The Spring Tides take place about two days after full moon, and the Neap Tides about two days after the first and last quarter.

In consequence of the sun being nearer the earth at the beginning of the year than at any other time, his attraction will then be most powerful on the tides, and should the moon happen to be in Perigee, their joint effects will produce the greatest Spring Tides.

The mean duration of the ebb and flow is about 12 h. 25 m., that is, half the lunar day of 24 h. 50 m., the period elapsing between successive returns of the moon to the same point of the meridian. Thus the sea in every place undergoes a flux and reflux as often as the moon passes the meridian, whether superior or inferior of the place; that is to say, twice in 24 h. 50 m.

The following Tide Table is constructed on strict scientific principles, from the very accurate Tide Tables of J. W. Lublock, Esq., London (the Tide Table in the Nautical Almanac for 1857 is also calculated from the same Tables), and will be found to be as correct as the position of our river, with regard to its locality, the influence of the winds, and other diversified circumstances, either hasten or retard its natural current. Hence the time of the Tide by observation may not at all times correspond precisely with the time found in the Table.

These tables are calculated for mean time, or the time shown by a well-regulated clock, reckoning from noon of each day. The Moon's phases are calculated to civil time. The civil day begins at midnight.

TIDE TABLE OF SOME OF THE PRINCIPAL PORTS IN ENGLAND, SCOTLAND, AND IRELAND.

The times of High Water at full and change of the moon, from which the following equations are calculated, are reckoned from apparent noon. They represent the actual times of High Water when the moon passes the meridian at the same time as the sun, or the intervals between the times of transit of the moon and the times of High Water on full and change days. With which, and the equation of time, the times of High Water at all the Ports here given will be obtained by addition, as here annexed.

In the year 1866 there will be three eclipses of the Sun, and two of the Moon.

I.—A partial Eclipse of the Sun, March 16th, invisible at Greenwich. Begins on the earth generally, March 16th, 8 h. 50 m. P.M., mean time at Greenwich, in long. 141° 34' E. of Greenwich, and lat. 49° 51' N.; ends 10 h. 52-5 m. P.M., long. 90° 6' W. of Greenwich, and lat. 85° 21' N.

II.—A total Eclipse of the Moon, March 31st, partly visible at Greenwich. First contact with the penumbra, March 31st, 1 h. 28 m. A.M.; last contact with the penumbra, 31st, 7 h. 39 m. A.M.

III.—A partial Eclipse of the Sun, April 15th, invisible at Greenwich. Begins on the earth generally, April 15th, 5 h. 11 m. A.M., mean time at Greenwich, in long. 33° 30' E. of Greenwich, and lat. 64° 55' S.; ends on the earth generally, April 15th, 8 h. 32 m. A.M., in long. 135° 25' E. of Greenwich, and 34° 15' S.

IV.—A total Eclipse of the Moon, September 24th, invisible at Greenwich.

V.—A partial Eclipse of the Sun, October 8th, partly visible at Greenwich. Begins on the earth generally, October 8th, 2 h. 52 m. P.M., mean time at Greenwich, in long. 120° 59' W. of Greenwich, and lat. 68° 15' N. Ends on the earth generally, October 8th, 6 h. 37 m. P.M., in long. 16° 25' W. of Greenwich, and lat. 34° 38' N.

NOTICE.

The latitude of Glasgow is 55-52, and the longitude 4-16 west of Greenwich, consequently there should be 17 minutes of difference of time between the clocks of Glasgow and the clocks of Greenwich, but the clocks of Glasgow are now adjusted to Greenwich mean time.

EXEMPLIFICATION AND CONSTRUCTION OF THE FOLLOWING TABLES.

TO FIND THE TIME OF HIGH WATER AT ANY PLACE IN THE GENERAL TIDE TABLE.

RULE.—To the time of high water at Glasgow on the given day, add or subtract the correction for the required place as stated in the table, and the time of high water will be obtained. When the sum of the correction, and of the time of high water in the table exceeds 12 hours, subtract 12 hours, and the remainder will be the time of high water in the morning or evening of the given day, as the column denotes; when the sum of the former quantities is less than 12 hours, this sum will be the time of high water required in the evening of the preceding day, or the morning of the given day, according as the column is marked morning or evening. Or the morning and the evening tides may be found thus:—If the morning tide be sought, and the sum be above 12 hours, take the time from Glasgow for the preceding evening, to which add the correction for the required place; from the sum subtract 12 hours, and the remainder is the morning tide at the place required. If the evening tide is wanted, and the sum exceed 12 hours, take the Glasgow morning tide for the given day, to which apply the correction for the required place, from the sum subtract 12 hours, and the remainder is the evening tide at the place required.

Required the time of high water at Peterhead, July 10th, 1866.

July 6th, 1866, the sun's longitude is 104° 7'; and the obliquity of the ecliptic 23° 27' 14"; required the sun's declination at noon.
